It was Christmas, and Chick and Mouse were going to Farmer Owl’s Farm to get a Christmas tree.
They found the perfect one, but they couldn’t reach the top to put on the star.
They asked Farmer Owl to put on the star, but it was daytime, so he was asleep.
They asked the firedogs to use their ladder to put on the star, but the firedogs said they were too busy putting out fires.
They asked the ants to climb to the top to put on the star, but they said it was winter, so they had to gather food.
And then they went to the grocery store to see if any of the shoppers would help. Chick saw the eggs and got an idea. He said they should find a bird to put on the star.
One the way home, they looked up and heard crying. A bluebird was in the Christmas tree.
The bluebird said, “I don’t have a home.” Chick and Mouse said, “If you put up our star, you can live here.”
The bluebird put on the star. Chick, Mouse, and the bluebird had a happy Christmas together!
